STOP FEEDING VAGRANTS AT CITY POLICE STATION

Chief Champion this morning discontinued the practice of giving transients and city police station lodgers coffee and bread for breakfast. It is decided the demand for labor was sufficient for the men to find jobs, if they cared to work, and the "drifted" out of town each morning after being released. A report will be made on the number received at the station and the cost of feeding them by Chief Champion within a fortnight.

The begging evil is promised to be checked by the energy of the police department in preventing "panhandling," and the heavy jail sentences that have been given offenders for vagrancy in the municipal court.

PERJURY CASE ADJUDGED UNTIL WEDNESDAY MORNING

The state case against Ernest Frank of Milton on the charge of perjury was adjourned by Judge Maxfield in the municipal court this morning to Wednesday morning, on motion of District Attorney Dunwiddie. Frank will be given his preliminary examination tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

DRAMA CLUB MET LAST EVENING; GOOD PROGRAM

At the regular meeting of the Drama society last evening the story of "The Walls of Jericho," written by Alfred Sutro.

Why so many feel tired. "Spring fever" is usually the result of sluggish bowels and torpid liver. After months of indigestion, you are not likely to feel vigorous and sprightly. Eley's Cathartic Tablets are worth their weight in gold for that overfull feeling, biliousness, gas on the stomach, bad breath, indigestion or constipation. Their action is quick, comfortable and complete—without nausea or griping. Stomach people say they are a blessing.—W. T. Sherer.

THE VOICE OF THE PEOPLE COLUMN IS OPEN TO PUBLIC

Communications On Subjects Of Interest Will Be Gladly Published By The Gazette.

Just at present the "Voice of the People" column is being used by the citizens to discuss matters of civic affairs. At present the Y. M. C. A. affairs appear to be in for a thorough airing. Thus far the communications received have dealt with only one side of the problem that is apparently open wide discussion. The Gazette would be glad to have the other side represented as well and invites communications.

The following are two communications received today relative to the Y. M. C. A. problem.

Plea for Boys.

To the Editor: The letter published in your paper yesterday and your comments on the affairs of the Y. M. C. A. is something which I have thought about many times. There is another question I would like to add to those already asked, and that is in regard to the boys' work of the association.

The boys are the future material of the business men of our city, the principles of the next generation will be the principles instilled in our boys today. It seems to me that the Y. M. C. A. could, to a large degree, influence these principles we have in Janesville. Approximately, we have 1,500 boys of school age, and there are many more who are not in school.

Y. M. C. A. is reaching out to the boys. I also venture the question that in view of the fact that the Y. M. C. A. has looked to its boys for future members and supporters, why no provisions were made for boys when the recent improvements were made.

The associations that are up to date are giving more and more room to boys. The new Belmont building is a good example, when completed it will have more than one-third of its working space given over to the boys and specialists in boys' work are given charge and all their time is given to the interests and development of the boy life of that city. Why haven't we a boys' work secretary? Surely our boys are as valuable to us as the Belmont boys are to them.

FRIEND OF BOYS.

Second Appeal.

To the Editor: I was interested to note the article in last night's Gazette asking for suggestions about the Janesville Y. M. C. A., but I think that the writer overlooked one of the greatest needs, that of a thorough equipped and organized department for boys.

Recently on a visit to Belmont, I ascertained that one of the main features of the new building there was the fact that it was set apart for a boys' department. This observation led me to wonder why, in the recent $35,000 improvement in the Janesville association, there was not a single dollar set aside for a boys' department.

If the association is to be the truly young men's association, it must make a place and a large place to those who are soon to be our young men, the fact that Janesville has only 150 boys in the association conclusively that the boys realize the lack of any special place for them in the association.

Therefore, if we expect the association to reach the boys of our city it must be so organized as to make an attractive place for them with features specially fitted to meet the restless, growing boy.

A READER.

WHEN TO PLANT

Editor: Then is the proper time to plant garden vegetables? Owing to the late season I am at a loss to know just when to put seeds in the ground.

Answer. In answer to the above the following from a government bulletin is published and should prove sufficient instruction to anxious gardeners.

Nature furnishes guides for garden planting which are even more reliable than the calendar, according to the department's garden specialist. The residents of the soil such as the maple, silver birch and dogwood are the best interpreters of nature's moods in spring, and quickly reflect them, so that the gardener who follows their silent suggestions may arrange the planting of his vegetables accordingly.

When the silver maples begin to leaf forth their leaves and the "catkins" on the willows and poplars, nature is indicating that the season is right for the planting of such vegetables as lettuce, mustard, onion seeds and onion sets, parsley, the round headed peas, early Irish potatoes, radishes, and turnips.

This, of course, is provided that the soil is in good order, which can be determined by taking a handful of soil from a depth of 2 or 3 inches from the surface, compact it in the hand by closing the fingers, and if, upon opening them, the ball of earth gradually falls apart, it is ready to be planted. If it holds together, then be buried a full spade depth below the surface and the soil should be made fine and compact with an even surface.

Until about 10 days after nature has set the date for the above-mentioned vegetables should be planted in garden truck as beets, carrots, and kohlrabi be planted. A second sowing of peas can also be made at this time.

The dogwood and the white oak begin to show signs of awakening at a time when other vegetables may be planted. These include bush and pole beans, sweet corn, cucumbers, muskmelons, watermelons, and various kinds of squash. The gardener and housewife will rarely plant too early if they but wait for nature to tell them what to do.

WOMEN WILL CAST VOTE ON MACHINES

Feminine Voters Will Have Chance to Use Machines in Balloting for School Commissioners.

Women of Janesville will have their first opportunity of voting with the machine on April 5th, a week from today, in casting their ballots for school commissioners at large, and the school commissioners in the wards. The restriction-ballot lever will prevent them from voting on the other tickets.

Little interest is being taken in the election, except in the first and third wards, where there is competition for the office of school commissioner and constable. The city at large will vote for the candidates for justice of the supreme court, school commissioner at large and justice of the peace, and the ward voters have a ticket for supervisors or commissioners.

In the first ward Charles H. Sykes is a candidate for supervisor, Robert J. Brown and E. J. Haumerson, for school commissioners.

The second ward a light vote is anticipated as there is only one candidate, Marshall P. Richardson, for the office of supervisor, and there is no school commissioner to be named.

In the third ward, three men—Albert Smith, Roy Claude Inman, and William Carroll—are running for constable. Smith having filed his nomination papers to have his name placed on the ticket. Emmet D. McGowan is the lone candidate for supervisor and S. M. Smith for school commissioner.

In the fourth ward Joseph Denning and P. P. Smith are running in opposition for supervisor and school commissioner. A candidate for constable.

In the fifth ward James C. Morris and J. M. Mayer are on the ballot for the offices of supervisor and school commissioner.

The city voting machines have been placed in readiness for the election and the ward voting polls will be made ready later in the week.

PLANS OF CITY WORK FILED BY ENGINEER

City Officials Obtaining an Early Start on Construction Work This Year.

Making Plumbing In.

Plans and specifications for city contract work to be let before the summer have been prepared by City Engineer C. V. Kerch, and bids are to be opened for the sewerage work on the city of Appleton, including the specifications, profiles, plans and details that are on file at the office of City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund.

The printed forms for the applications for bids for the city plumbing inspector George W. Brum, have been received and much work is being done in this office during the past two weeks. Repair work in the city has been inspected and several jobs refused acceptance. Much work not being strictly in conformity with the state plumbing code. Many applications have been received for investigation of plumbing, which are being investigated by the city engineer and plans before the permit is issued.

The plans for paving work on Wisconsin and Bluff streets for asphalt macadam have been accepted and the assessment against the property owners "spread" by the members of the board of public works. A hearing on the assessment schedule is to be held before the board of public works on the eighth of April at the office of Mayor Fathens.

The first work to be done by the city, by city workmen, is the construction of the eighteen inch tile sewer on North street from the Wall to Bluff, to connect with the drainage sewer to the river and prevent drainage water from going into the macadam. Objections have been raised by the Block Association against the surface water going into the race and forming a sandbar, and the sewer will remedy the evil.

The sewer will be extended from the intersection of West Bluff street to Pine street, to provide drainage for the first ward streets. The thirty-six inch sewer on Oak street will be extended from Main street to the river and north several blocks from Wisconsin to Jackson street.

STANDARD UNIFORM FOR POLICE FORCE

Summer Apparel for Members of Police Department Received This Morning.—Some "Classy" Caps.

Some bright, warm day the Janesville police force is going to spring a surprise on the unsuspecting public and appear "all rigged" out in a "nobby" summer uniform that will inaugurate the system adopted by Chief Champion for standard uniforms for all the police in this city. The summer uniforms of the department were received this morning from a Milwaukee concern, and will be worn when weather permits.

In the past there has been no standard dress for the policemen, and Chief Champion resolved to adopt the Milwaukee style of clothes and have the officers obtain them. The suits are of an excellent quality of blue serge, tailored plain with no pockets on the outside of the coat. The gold buttons are the seal of the collar. On the chest of the captain's sleeves there are small gold buttons to signify their rank and each has a number on the collar of rank or precinct number. The caps have a silver shield with number and add greatly to the appearance of the suit.

"There will be no officer putting his hands in the coat pockets while on duty," said Chief Champion, "for the pockets are no pockets. The police will have to keep their hands where they should be—out of their pockets."

BARN IS DESTROYED KILLING LIVESTOCK

Huge Barn Belonging to John Raff, Residing Northwest of Beloit, Is Consumed By Flames Yesterday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Town Line, March 30.—A huge barn, five cows, three calves and one yearling heifer, besides a windmill, hay, grain and corn fodder, belonging to John Raff, five miles northwest of Beloit, were destroyed Monday afternoon when a four year old boy playing with matches accidentally set fire to the building.

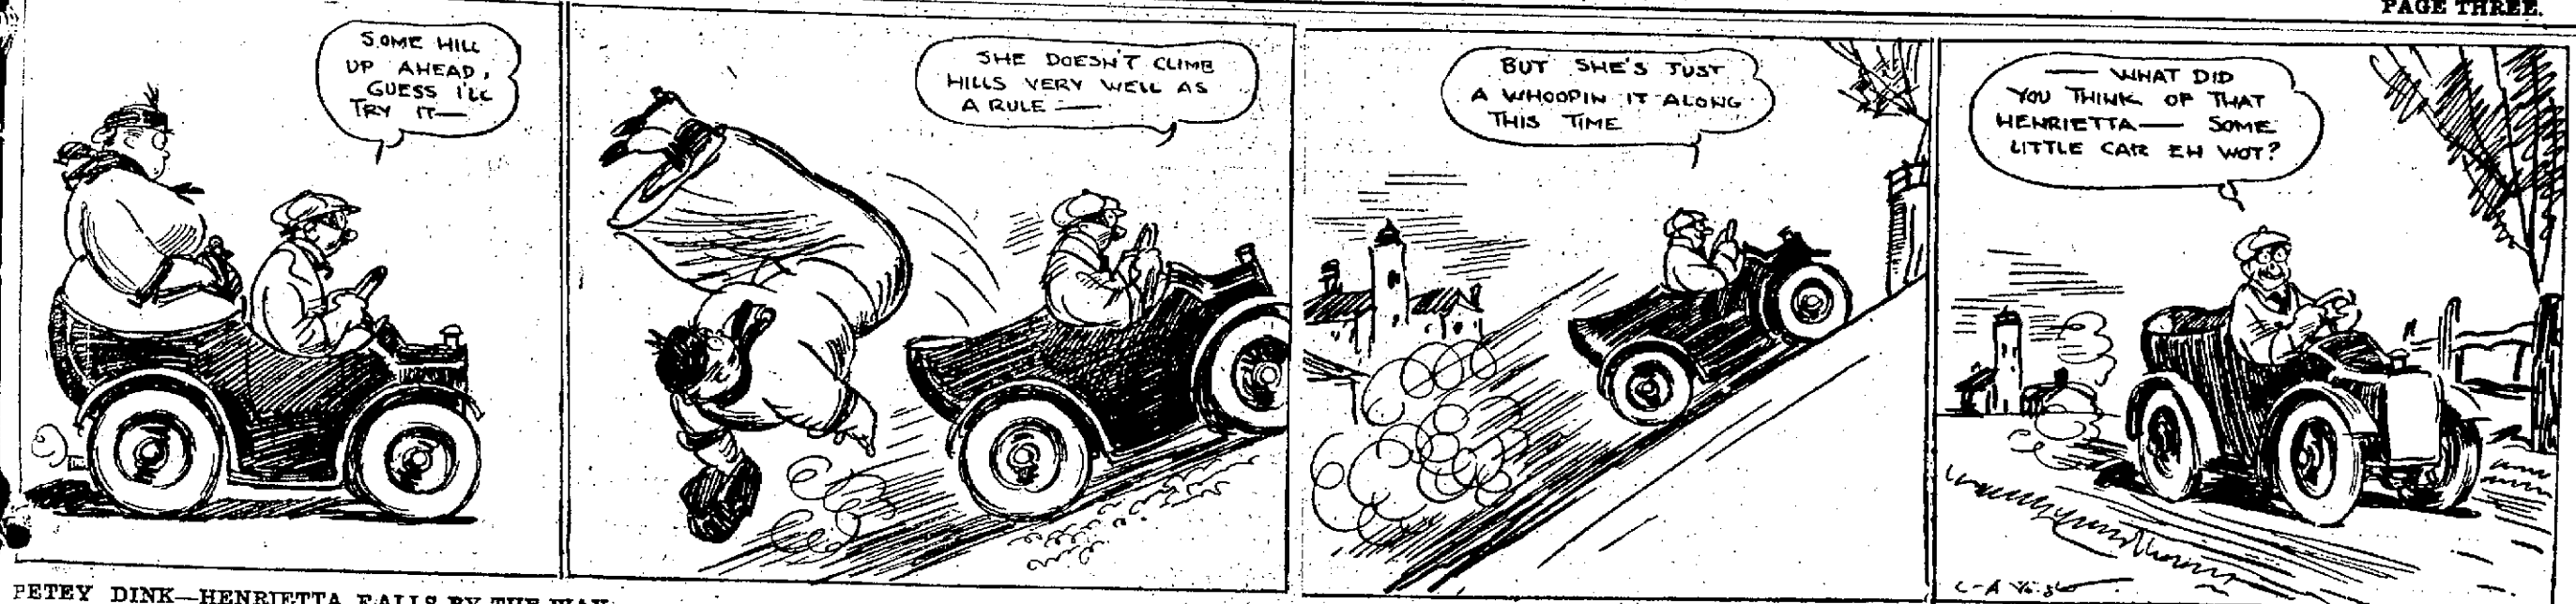

The barn was forty by fifty feet, and contained much harness, with quite a supply of hay and grain. The loss has not been quoted, but is partly covered by insurance.

OPENING GUN FIRED IN PACIFIC LEAGUE

Fans in North Anxiously Await The Call Of The Diamond While Schedule Starts On Pacific Coast.

San Francisco, March 30.—They're the Pacific Coast League. The opening gun in the 1915 baseball season was fired today in three of the larger cities west of the Rockies when the Coast League, one of the larger minor league organizations, got under way. San Francisco, Los Angeles and Salt Lake were the cities where hot stove leagues were disbanded and the fans came into their own.

Here's the way they lined up: Oakland at San Francisco; Portland at Los Angeles; Vernon at Salt Lake. The usual ceremonies, including brass bands, parades and speeches, preceded the games. And then the fans and fanatics settled down, so far as the Pacific Coast is concerned, to eight months of baseball.

The same old brand of predictions were voiced by the managers of the several clubs.

"Every man on my team is a champion," said "Happy" Hogan, manager of the Vernon Tigers, "and I can't see how they can keep us from annexing the pennant."

The five other managers in the league were to the point with similar statements, but unbiased experts have declared the San Francisco club to be the greatest aggregation of players ever assembled in a minor league. This team was constructed by Harry Oliver, former manager of the New York Highlanders. Portland and Los Angeles also loom up as contenders.

Crack Beloit Champions Trounced by Janesville Champs by 81 Pins Last Evening.

The Beloit bowling champions, captained by Dorrbacher, the veteran bowler of that city, were decisively beaten by the Janesville Y. M. C. A. five last evening at the association alleys in this city by 81 pins. The winners claim the championship of both cities for this season.

But one bowler hit the 300 mark, it being Cook, for Janesville. The totals were 2499 for Beloit to 2580 for Janesville. The summary is as follows:

ENGLISH CHAMPION IS KNOCKED OUT BY MORAN

London, March 30.—Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, fought Johnson his last battle, knocked out Bombardier Wells, champion of Great Britain, in the tenth round of a scheduled twenty round mill at London last night. Moran outfought Wells all the day and in the tenth sent a crushing blow to Wells' jaw for the full count.

White Batters Fox.—Charlie White had a clean verdict over Charley Thomas in six rounds of slashing boxing last night. Thomas claims the honors of France, but furnished a punching bag for White, who had his opponent in a bad way on several occasions. The Chicago idol was not in best shape, not having recovered from the effects of the Cross millling.

TEAMS CHOSEN FOR STATE TOURNAMENT

The Wisconsin state interscholastic basketball tournament for high school teams will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week in the Armory at Appleton, under the auspices of Lawrence College. Following elimination games for the past two weeks the race has dwindled down to eight teams, who will battle for the 1915 championship. The teams from the various sections are designated as follows: southeastern section, Burlington and Beloit; southwestern, Baraboo; northwestern, Eau Claire and Menomonie; northwestern, Fond du Lac, West Green Bay and Menasha.

Baseball has gained wide popularity recently in Venezuela. Almost unknown a year ago, there are today no fewer than sixty-six clubs in the southern republic. No regular league has as yet been established, but this is looked for in the near future.

Washington, although the capital city of the nation, never until a few years ago assumed its rightful place in baseball. Its team, with three interruptions, aggregating four years, has been a member of major league organizations since 1884, and never until 1912 finished higher than sixth place. Once, in 1897, in the National league the Washington club tied with Brooklyn for that position, and twice in the American league, in 1901 and 1902, they wound up at the sixth notch. The foundation of the present really formidable team was laid in 1907, when two of its greatest stars were acquired. These men were Walter Johnson and Clyde Milen.

We suspect that Walter Johnson will earn all he gets from the Washington club this summer. His only chance for a rest between April and October 5 is that the courts stop him.

Bernard (Red) Boland, diminutive twirler who seems to have made good with the Detroit Tigers, says Lee Fohl, Detroit coach, is the man who should get most credit for his success on the diamond. Fohl was successful Akron's baseball hopes when Boland made his debut for that club as a twirler. Boland then had a sidearm delivery that caused him to grope almost every ball. Fohl made him discard the side-arm stuff and develop an over-hand motion. Fohl's coaching made him a good twirler, Boland says.

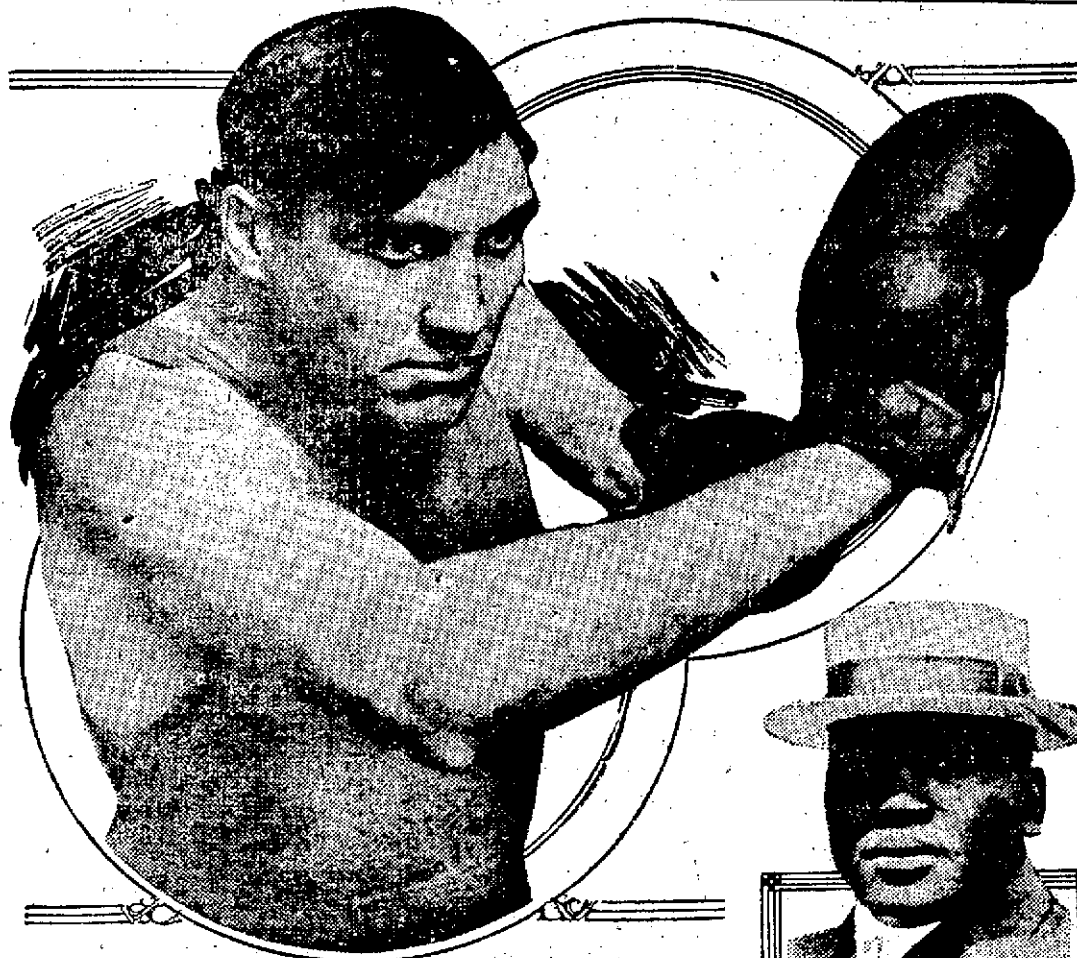

"Gus Williams won't strike out as often this season as he did last. If I were a betting man, I'd lay a 100 to 1 that he won't. So says Frank Ricker, boss of the St. Louis Browns. He's been coaching Gus all spring to break him of the strikeout habit. But when Williams was the champion strikeout of the world. He whiffed 121 times.

The streets of Havana are reported to be thronged with people who are illustrating how each holds in the contest will be struck. In going through this pantomime one thoughtful Cuban used a machete to beat a gentleman who held his note for three pesos. When he was taken before the judge he testified that he was simply trying to illustrate how Senor Jess Willard might knock out the champion.

The development of John Henry of the Washington club into a much better hitter than he ever was before will mean much to the team. Henry has taught himself the art of hitting to right field and he is clever at it. Most of his drives are close to the bag and are not grounders but line drives which would be sure to go safe. Once in a while Henry pulls to ball into left. Griffith looks for Henry to hit forty or fifty points better than he ever did before and if this expectation is realized the Nationals are sure to average more runs per game than they have formerly.

They are greasing the ways for sliding the great Hans Wagner into oblivion, according to reports from the camp of the Pittsburgh Pirates. The latest word is that Spooks Greer, purchased from Columbus, will displace House at the shortstop job and Wagner will alternate with Doc Johnston at the first sack and also do the club's pinch hitting. Wagner has been playing first base with the second squad all spring. Doc has been fielding excellently around the first base bag and also hitting well.

JACK JOHNSON SEEMS SCARED AS DAY OF FIGHT APPROACHES

Jess Willard and Jack Johnson.

New York, March 29.—The history of the prize ring offers no parallel of the battle for the world's heavyweight championship in which Jack Johnson and Jess Willard will engage next Monday at Havana, Cuba. Big men have fought for this premier title of fistiana since the early days of the eighteenth century but never through the long list of champions from James Figg to Jim Jeffries.

Next to Jim Jeffries, the Goliath of modern ring times, Johnson is the biggest man who ever held the title. Jeffries weighed 220 pounds, and Johnson six feet one and a half inches in fighting shoes; Johnson six feet one half inch tall and weighs about 215 pounds. In condition, Jim Corbett scaled 187 lbs., at his best and was 173 inches tall; Fitzsimmons was one and one-fourth of an inch shorter and fought at about 170 pounds; Sullivan stood 5 feet 10 1/2 inches, and fought at 165 lbs.; Tom Sharkey was five inches, and fought his best bouts at close to 150 pounds.

Willard a Samson. Compared with these past heavyweights, Johnson appears a Samson. Even when ranked alongside of Johnson the Kansas cowboy overshadows the negro title holder in almost every point of physical measurements. In addition to his 5 1/2 inches advantage in height and ten years difference in age he outweighs Johnson by twenty pounds. His reach of 33 1/2 in., against the negro's 76 in., will also prove of exceptional value if properly used. In all the measurements of trunk and limbs, Willard shows an advantage in structure, muscle and chest expansion varying from two to four inches.

Strength vs. Science. To offset these physical assets Johnson has the benefit of ring wisdom and craft cultivated during his long career as championship contender and holder. Just as Willard surpasses Johnson in every point of physical make-up the Galtveston pugilist excels the Kansas boxer in all departments of the science of giving and evading glove punishment. With youth and power ranged against experience and skill, the battle is likely to develop into a contest in which ring strategy will equalize brute strength and courage.

Johnson's ring assets are well known but uncertainty clouds Willard's prospects. In his short period of active glove battling he has never faced an opponent of the power, skill and experience of Johnson. The negro is no physical weakling even at the age of thirty-eight years, and while Willard must be accorded the advantage here it is likely that the champion's offensive and defensive skill in both boxing and clinching will nullify this to a considerable extent. In the closing rounds of the battle it is probable that endurance and courage will play an important part.

Has no Nerve. Willard has shown both these qualities but up to the present time has not been noted for aggressiveness or boxing ability. Whether he can rise to the opportunity will be demonstrated in the supreme test at Havana next Monday. The future drawing powers of a new champion towering far above many of his predecessors, adds a glamor to the battle which the promoters have had in mind since they began the preliminary arrangements some months ago. That the match making was not without its delays and ups and downs is shown by the fact that the pugilists meet as scheduled next Monday exactly six months will have elapsed since the day Jack Curley and the other promoters of the big bout decided upon securing Johnson's signature to the articles of agreement. The big champion was in France at that time and Curley was entrusted with the commission to go find the Texas negro and secure his endorsement on the articles which had been signed by Willard a day or two previously. The syndicate which promoted the bout had picked Willard as the most promising of the white heavyweights to take the title from Johnson, and they still believe that the Kansas will prove the victor.

Curley arrived at Paris, France, early in November only to find that Johnson had gone to London, Eng-

THE GOOD JUDGE IS UNDER THE SHERIFF'S PROTECTION

WHEN it looks like trouble—remember there's peace and calm content in "the little chew that satisfies."

The whole world is friendly to the man who hands out a smile and a kindly hint about the Real Tobacco Chew.

A little chew of pure, rich, mellow tobacco—cut fine, short shred—seasoned and sweetened just enough, cuts out so much of the grinding and spitting.

Take a very small chew—less than one-quarter the old size. It will be more satisfying than a mouthful of ordinary tobacco. Just nibble on it until you find the strength chew that suits you. Tuck it away. Then let it rest. See how easily and evenly the real tobacco taste comes, how it satisfies without grinding, how much less you have to spit, how few chews you take to be tobacco satisfied. That's why it is the Real Tobacco Chew. That's why it costs less in the end.

It is a ready chew, cut fine and short shred so that you won't have to grind on it with your teeth. Grinding on ordinary candied tobacco makes you spit too much.

The taste of pure, rich tobacco does not need to be covered up with molasses and licorice. Notice how the salt brings out the rich tobacco taste in "Real Tobacco Chew."

One small chew takes the place of two big chews of the old kind.

land. There Curley found him and after a good deal of persuasion succeeded in securing the champion's consent and signature. The moment Johnson signed his name to the contract, which stipulated that the contest should be scheduled for twenty to forty-five rounds, Curley handed $1,000 to Johnson, which was half of the amount to be allowed him for traveling and training expenses. This contract bearing the date of November 16, last, assures Johnson that his end of the purse, $30,000, shall be paid to him before he enters the ring and that in addition Johnson is to receive one-half of the net amount received from moving pictures to be taken of the contest.

Failed at Juarez. Curley came back to America and completed arrangements to hold the fight on the race track at Juarez, Mexico, on March 6. Early in January, Curley received a cable from Johnson at Buenos Aires, and immediately wired him $1,500, the other half of the expense money from New York and left for Juarez the day following. At that time and for several weeks afterward Curley believed that the bout would surely take place at Juarez but subsequently he had to change all his plans.

Willard left New York for El Paso, Tex., in January and began training at the Knabblack Ranch, January 25, where he remained hard at work for a month. Meanwhile Curley was disturbed with rumors that Johnson would not be able to reach Mexico in time. The negro and his party arrived at Barbadoc, B. W. I., February 8, and sailed from that port Cuba three days later. On February 21 Johnson reached Havana, and kept the wires to Mexico busy with messages to the effect that he would not fight at Juarez.

Curley was persistent in his efforts to bring off the bout as scheduled and started for Havana, where he met Johnson on March 3. There he made arrangements to have the bout take place at Havana on April 8, but finally settled for a detail for the decision of the world's championship at the Marianao race track next Monday.

In the meantime Willard had broken up his training camp and started for Los Angeles, Cal., where he was induced to return to Texas. He got to El Paso on March 11 and accompanied by his manager and handlers left for New Orleans en route to Havana the same day arriving in Cuba March 16.

"The Sweet Creature." "Patrick! Patrick!" admonished a lady. "Be careful where you are walking! You nearly trod upon my darling tortoise!" "Och, be aisy, me lady!" rejoined her Irish gardener. "Shure, an' I wouldn't hurt a hair of his head, the sweet creature!"

PEACE PROSPECTS.

Perhaps no nation on the globe, not directly associated with the European nations at war, so earnestly desires peace as does the United States. With its cosmopolitan population, its French, its Austrian, its Italian, its German, its Russian, its English and Serbian citizens, let alone the other elements affected by the strife of nations, it watches the war news most earnestly. Peace is hoped for. The world is tired of war. It is tired of the accounts of battles, of sea fights, of air raids, of the loss of this or that fortress, of the decimation of thousands of soldiers, brave men answering the call of their country. It grieves with the orphans and the widows, with the mothers and fathers, the brothers and sisters who have suffered directly by the struggle. The Wall Street Journal, while optimistic of peace, says that there is heavy fighting ahead in Europe, perhaps the heaviest of the war, is highly probable. But there are some signs that a conflict which should have terminated many months ago, a termination before the autumn leaves fall. It will be remembered that this was the phrase used by the Kaiser to his soldiers, in promising them a return to Germany early last autumn.

But when Sir John French expresses the opinion that the end is near away, and gives such sound reasons as the exhaustion of ammunition and the deterioration of morale, a more hopeful complexion is placed upon the outlook. What is equally to the point is that there has been some cancellation of war orders. One particular case, that of ice-making machines, presumably for hospital use in the summer, ordered in Baltimore, is significant.

This does not admit that the allies are relaxing their efforts; or that the Germans admit, even to themselves, that the great stroke they had planned and perfected through a quarter of a century has failed. But that it has failed is self-evident. The numerous plans which were to "stagger humanity," as Kruger said, have only done so in the sense that humanity has been appalled by their murderous futility.

That Austria is on its last legs, following the fall of Przemyśl, seems fairly plain; and the entry of Italy into the war to say nothing of Roumania, would eliminate her as a fighting factor. Germany cannot beat the whole world. Her crushing defeat, with a loss of four miles at Neuve Chapelle, proves that her entrenchments are far from impregnable against the wonderful artillery the allies have improvised in so short a time. Obviously, that exploit can be repeated; while the forcing of the Dardanelles, almost a decisive point in itself, would probably mark the beginning of the end.

There is a note in the markets also, alike in grain and stocks, which indicates the discounting of good news. There is no better barometer. Wall street does not know everything so far as any individual is concerned. But its aggregate of knowledge, as reflected in the markets, is probably greater and more accurate than that of any other place in the world. The market is saying now that peace is not far away, with or without the starvation of Germany, a point upon which information is so diverse that sensible discussion is profuse.

Switzerland is the unknown factor in the equation. It may upset all calculations. But even in the case of the bitterly humiliated pride of the German war machine, it is not an insuperable obstacle.

BYRON ON PROHIBITION.

That prohibition is going to be one of the issues of the coming national campaigns and that the boasts of the anti-liquor men that Nineteen Twenty will see this nation voted dry, is a burning subject of discussion. Prohibition is coming as sure as the Lord comes is a question, but it is coming. William Jennings Bryan, the democratic secretary of state, the man who was opposed by the liquor element in his last national campaign for the presidency, has more than evened up the scores. The Christian Science Monitor says that at what has been described locally as a "tremendous anti-liquor meeting" in Philadelphia last week, William Jennings Bryan, secretary of state of the United States of America, presented an invitation of leading citizens, delivered a powerful temperance address in which he dealt quite as much with the economic as with the moral phase of the prohibition movement. The statistics at his tongue's end, no doubt, were astonishing to many in the audience; they must have been convincing to a great many more, for at the close of that meeting thousands of men added their signatures to that of Mr. Bryan on the pledge book. This is not the place for the figures, but a thoughtful and conservative Philadelphia newspaper, the Public Ledger, commenting on the secretary's address, has remarked: "Probably no one ever set forth the national aspect of the problem more clearly than Mr. Bryan in his Monday night address, and the influence of that meeting with the participation of the Pennsylvania legislature upon the local option bill."

Nevertheless, critics of Mr. Bryan have made his address at this remarkable meeting an excuse for attacking him most violently. The spectacle of his appearance on a public platform exposing and denouncing one of the chief evils of the ages, at a time when it is said, momentous world questions should have held him at his desk in Washington, is pronounced in one quarter humiliating to American citizenship. Abuse is heaped upon him unsparingly, and the President is made to share it, because although Mr. Bryan occupies the highest position in the cabinet, he actually took time to visit Philadelphia and make there what is perhaps one of the most telling anti-liquor, anti-saloon, anti-crime, anti-poverty speeches ever delivered in the United States. It is charged that in entering so conspicuously and of course so ably, the present crusade against a traffic that has been, and still is, the agent of much suffering and sorrow, to say no more, he has forgotten the dignity of his office and brought disgrace down upon it.

Such criticism of Mr. Bryan, we think, can reasonably be disregarded. If it is good and worthy for any man to speak for temperance and to lead in signing the pledge, the goodness of such an act is not mitigated by reason of the fact that the man happens to be the secretary of state of the United States. The nation's leading men can lose little of their dignity through lending their great influence in the world-wide contest against the liquor traffic.

THE Y. M. C. A.

In last evening's issue of the Gazette appeared a communication relative to the Janesville Y. M. C. A. and its management. A plea was made for some sort of a financial statement, for some sort of an explanation as to why directors elected for three years' terms, many years ago, still hold office, and no annual meetings are held and no reports made to the members. Apparently the complaint was well grounded. If so there should be more publicity given the existing conditions. No corporation that depends upon the public for its financial support, that is, of a semi-public nature, can expect to hide its actions under a bushel basket and expect no questions to be asked as to the whys and wherefores. Janesville is proud of its Y. M. C. A. and it has received generous support from citizens generally. The list of membership could, and should, be materially increased and its influence extended into channels which it does not now reach. However, before such a campaign is begun let us have an explanation of the insinuations which appeared in the communication of Monday evening. Let us clear up all doubts in our minds as to what the Young Men's Christian Association stands for and how the money collected and subscribed is spent. Let us have an annual meeting at which every stockholder has the right to voice his sentiment by his vote and let the men entrusted with the administration of the affairs of the association understand that they are handling the affairs of a semi-public organization, not a close corporation that can ignore the wishes of the public and administer its affairs to suit a few. The columns of the Gazette are open to a discussion of this important question and the pros and cons should be thoroughly threshed out by those personally acquainted with the existing facts.

First we are told that Italy is ready for an instant attack upon Austria. Then we are told that Austria is prepared to resist to the very end and attempt to wrest territory from its domains, and finally it is announced that Austria will cede to Italy certain coveted portions of her empire, taken by the way from Italy in 1866, if Italy will remain neutral. So who can you believe?

There are hard at it again up at Madison. Now that the governor's plans are clearly known, we may expect some definite results. However, the farmer members are now insisting that they be allowed to go back home by June 1st even if the legislative adjourns until next fall after harvest time and they return and finish their work.

As the golf season approaches, the plans for the coming summer discussed, the inactivity of the game makes it wonder that more do not avail themselves of the unusual advantages which the Mississippi Golf club offers and become active members.

Thus far Switzerland has not even been mentioned as a possible contender in the present struggle. It is rumored, however, the Swiss navy has been mobilized and their superdreadnaughts prepared for any emergency.

—but then you can not believe every report you hear.

That so-called "paper blockade" of Germany is costing the English shipping a pretty penny and the loss of peaceful citizens is fast growing apace. War is no discriminator of persons or property.

The state normal schools have a most excellent lobby at Madison and certain claim that they have fifty-five votes in the assembly, when they need them to pass any or all appropriations asked for. Nice thing is it not?

Ole Hansen

Had no money. He heard that he could get a farm in North Dakota by living on it five years and improving it. So he went West. Today he has 160 acres, part of it fine pasture, part cropped in grain. He owns some horses and cows but decided that a few more cows would be a great aid. The local banks had loaned all their funds so he asked us for $500. After we had looked over his place we loaned him that amount taking a mortgage on his entire farm.

was left $500 when her husband died. She was earning her living, but needed all she could get. She had felt that the 3 per cent she could get at the bank wasn't enough. When we told her about Ole Hansen and the place he owned—about his desire to buy more cows so that he could get a cream check every month—Mother Jones decided he was the right sort of man to use the money. Besides she was satisfied that we were always between herself and the farm. Now she is getting 6 per cent, and is happy.

CONDENSER HEADS FACE GRAVE CHARGE IN MADISON COURT

President and Secretary of Valeria Company Accused of Embezzlement of Funds.

Evidently the troubles of the Valeria Milk company, which controls a factory in Footville in this county and one at Middleton and in other places in the state, are to be thoroughly aired in the hands of a referee, as S. Warner of Madison being named for that office, but now comes the arrest of M. A. Pease and Charles F. Christensen, late president and secretary of the company, on the charge of the alleged embezzlement of $3,778 from the state bank of Middleton. The two men were arraigned in the Dane county municipal court late Monday and their preliminary hearing set for April 12. They were released under bail of $5,000 each.

The complaint was sworn to by W. F. Pierston, president of the Middleton bank. It is alleged that the accused men secured a loan of $3,778 from the Middleton bank, promising that amount when paid a check for a carload of condensed milk shipped to the United States navy yard at Brooklyn, N. Y. instead of turning the check over when an investigating committee of the stockholders appointed, a new board of directors elected and new officers named. This morning twenty employees were discharged and the price of milk increased.

Just how much is owed the farmers that supplied the Footville company is not listed, but it is rumored it will total several thousand dollars. That some of the farmers who supplied the condensers are two and three months in arrears in their payments and their claims will be listed with the others of the creditors.

Individual and combined efforts by members of the "fly-swating brigade" during the past week has resulted in the killing of seven hundred more of the pestiferous creatures. The slogan is "get the flies now" and make possible a more healthy city during the summer months. Any child in the city can join the brigade, by bringing in a hundred flies to the library any Saturday morning at eleven-thirty o'clock.

BURGLAR IS TRAILED FROM SHOPIERE HOME

Thief Breaks Into Groceries Home at Shopiere Last Night and Steals Over Hundred Dollars.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Police of southern Wisconsin are searching for a burglar who stole about one hundred and twenty dollars in cash from the residence of August Shopiere at Shopiere between one and two o'clock last night. The thief broke the lock to the rear door to gain entrance and with unlimited daring went through the house in search of valuable.

After checking his son were sleeping and from the bedroom the intruder took two wallets containing $185 and small change and a jackknife. In leaving the place the burglar smashed a window, awakened Shopiere, but he awoke too late to prevent the stranger's escape. Beloit blood hounds were taken to the Shopiere home and the dogs followed the thief to Beloit. A meager description has been obtained of the thief by Beloit authorities, who have information that the man wanted was in Beloit early this morning.

SMALL DAMAGE CAUSED AT LIGHTHOUSE RESIDENCE BY FIRE THIS MORNING

Fire caused from a cracked chimney caused a small damage at the home of Mrs. Minnie Lichtfus on North Franklin street, shortly after nine o'clock last night. The fire was put out with the use of hand pumps.

Monday afternoon the second grass fire of the year was extinguished on "Snake" hill by the broom brigade.

A one-third of the department answered an alarm to the Andrew W. Anderson residence at 320 Racine street, where a grass fire was spreading rapidly. This is the thirty-sixth alarm since the first fire on the hill in 1914 on the department records for six months last year. Warning is given against grass fires at this season of the year and care should be exercised in building brush or rubbish fires where the dry grass is liable to catch from the blaze.

GREEK INSTITUTIONS SURVIVE CENTURIES

Thread of Hellenic Existence Weathers Many Changes But Remains Unbroken.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Washington, D. C., March 30.—With indecision marking the attitude of Greece toward the Anglo-Russo-French and Turkish struggle on the easternmost fringe of the Balkans, and while her political leaders are working for and against the continuance of neutrality, a general sketch of the modern Hellenic people for the National Geographic Society by George Higgins Moses, United States minister to Greece and Montenegro in 1905-1910, forms a timely and instructive commentary upon the present events there. In the last two generations the interests of Greece have expanded so rapidly as to awaken in the minds of many of its patriots ambitions of a modern empire, a re-inspiring of Byzantium.

Modern dwellers in Greece feel themselves to be the direct descendants of the Hellenic Greeks and of the heroes of glorious classic Greece. Mr. Moses writes; and he continues, their life has shown a persistent continuity which warrants their claim; for, a Roman empire, a Turkish rule, a Venetian baili, or a Turkish duke, the thread of Hellenic existence has remained unbroken. Their religion, their language and their traditions have survived all changes of masters and all forms of dominion, and many a Greek character is much the same today as it was two thousand years ago.

Also, in the same respects Greek life today, is the same as it was at the birth of Christ, says this writer, who has seen Greek peasants plowing with bent sticks, just as Adam may have been plowing after the fall from Eden, the splendor of his ploughing after being crowned as a hero in Athens, and the "Paris of the Levant," however, according to Mr. Moses, is disappearing in a modern city. It has wide parks, and adorned with many small public buildings, most of them gifts of rich Greeks who have spent abroad.

Greeks swarm the seas for a living, as of old, he says, and as of old, their passionate sociability draws them to the country to the towns and cities. One-fourth of the population of Greece is to be found in Athens and Piræus. The drain of emigration from the rural districts to native cities and cities in other lands is enormous, and in the worst of a cabinet minister, "it constitutes a national hemorrhage." In some villages in the Peloponnese, Mr. Moses says, the population has been reduced to one-third of its former number, and the remaining population is so small that the country is a vast wilderness.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer E. Van Pool of Court street, have returned from a visit of several days with friends in Edgerton.

LARGE FUNERAL HELD FOR MRS. M'CARTHY

Rev. E. J. McCarthy, Son of Deceased, Was Celebrant—Solemn High Mass Was Read.

Funeral services for Mrs. John McCarthy were held this morning at 10:30 at St. Patrick's church, solemn high mass being read. Thirty-five priests from this part of the state were in the lower house of the legislature last night. Senator Skogmo's resolution memorializing President Wilson to call a conference of the neutral nations—the plan proposed at the Chicago peace conference in February—was killed by a vote of 39 to 31. Arguments against it were made by Assemblyman Carl Hanson, Manitowish, a brother of United States Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota.

We should not waste our time on such a nonsensical proposition as this," declared Assemblyman Nelson. The resolution was championed by Assemblyman Axel Johnson, Folk county.

By a vote of 42 to 27 the assembly, however, concurred in the Biebler resolution extending to President Wilson the sympathy, support and confidence of the legislature of Wisconsin. Assemblyman Minkley said it should be defeated, as it was introduced only to help out four democratic state senators who had voted against the president on a similar resolution offered by a republican.

By a vote of 30 to 35 the assembly killed a resolution memorializing congress to exercise exclusive jurisdiction over the protection of food fish in the waters of the state. Assemblyman Hambrecht attacked it, saying the legislature has

By RUTH YOUNG CAMERON

IS SHE PRETTY?
My friends sometimes laugh at me because my first question about any unknown female quantity usually is, "Is she pretty?" But why not?
When you come right down to it, doesn't the possession or lack of beauty have a tremendous effect on a woman's life?
Or on a man's too, for that matter?
Good looks are a prepossession in anyone's favor. As I have often said, it is the show window which makes people want to come inside the shop. The goods inside must keep the customers, but it's a good deal easier to get them there in the first place with an attractive show window.
The Tortoise and the Hare.
A homely man or woman can accomplish just as big things but it usually takes more force of character. Perhaps this very lack of beauty helps develop force of character. Who knows? In any case there are few of us who would refuse the possession of good looks if some fairy godmother offered them to us.
Which brings me somewhat nearer the point I started for.
Are you a mother? If so, are you doing all you can to give your children the largest measure of good looks possible to them?
Look Out For The Shape of The Head.
The shape of the head is an important factor. Up to the age of eighteen months a child's head is more or less malleable and the shape can be injured by letting it lie too much in one position. If you put a hot water bottle down on a pillow it will take a certain form and hold it. That's what happens to a child's head and if you don't want it to be poorly shaped you should turn the child on the pillow frequently.
Few things detract from good looks more than protruding ears. A little cap to hold the baby's ears down at night will help discourage ears that have the protruding tendency. Be sure it is thin enough not to make him sweat. Be careful, too, that the child does not lie with the ear folded under.
Misshapen teeth will spoil the finest face. Be careful that the first teeth do not stay in too long and force the second to come in crooked. Directly after the second teeth have come in is the time to correct any dental deformity. Take the child to a first class dentist. If you can't afford that, perhaps there are free dental clinics in your neighborhood.
Sleep Means Roses.
A good complexion is a gift that your woman-child will thank you for all the days of her life. Cleanliness of the skin, fresh air, lots of sleep and plenty of sleep during the growing years are the best means to insure a good skin. Don't think all this is too much bother over too small a matter. This is what a pretty wise student of the matter says:
"With one-half the world only, as all know, is character destiny; the rest is bent and twisted, glorified or smashed by physiognomy, the great potter."

Household Hints

WONDERS OF STEEL WOOL
Steel wool can be purchased at any hardware store for ten cents. It works wonders when scouring powders or other fall. One piece, size of an egg, can be used time and again. Dip in warm water, rub with soap and rub article.
The inside of a coffee pot that becomes discolored can be cleaned beautifully.
Oftentimes the food in a baking dish sticks to sides and bottom and requires a great deal of soaking; it can be removed at once with the wool.
For bathtubs and sinks it has no equal.
An aluminum polish it has no equal.
Often glass gets spotted with paint, which is easily removed with the wool.
Nickel on a stove can be shined to look like new.
UP-TO-DATE RECIPES
Meat Patties With Dimples—Put two tablespoons lard into a deep iron skillet. When hot, add small onion sliced and fry a golden brown. Then put in six medium-sized meat patties made of ground steak seasoned with salt and pepper. Fry brown on both sides, then cover with boiling water and simmer very gently for one hour. Remove meat and add dumplings made as follows: Mix one cup flour with one teaspoon baking powder, a pinch of salt and sufficient milk to make a batter that will drop from spoon. Drop by small spoonfuls, cover and cook ten minutes. Place meat on hot platter, arrange dumplings around it and pour over it the brown gravy.
Baked Potatoes in Half—On each piece sprinkle pepper, salt, sugar, two or three drops of vinegar, a bit of butter and a chopped onion. Bake in over twenty to thirty minutes.
Baked Easter Rabbit—Make a sponge of one quart milk, one cake yeast; add one cup sugar, one-half cup butter and lard creamed, one teaspoon salt and bread flour to make as stiff as bread. Let it rise. Make a pattern of a rabbit running, on heavy paper. When dough is raised roll it out 1 1/2 inches thick, lay on the pattern and cut around it with a sharp knife; put it in the pan. Bake a brush for an eye. Let rise again. Brush with beaten egg or milk and bake. If too much dough for rabbit, roll out, spread with melted butter, cinnamon

EARLY LIFE IN WISCONSIN

HOW LAKE SEDIMENTS FORMED ROCKS.
No. 7.
Prepared for The Gazette by the Geology department at The University of Wisconsin.
Formerly geologists pictured the Wisconsin of those far-off ages as forming an island substantially the shape of the area of hard rocks of the northern highland. Now, however, we are inclined to believe from the discovery of remnants of sedimentary rocks far from their main body, that at times the entire state must have been submerged. That our state was ever submerged to depths of over a few hundred feet is very doubtful. Furthermore, it is probable from the result of recent studies, that the occupation by the sea was by no means continuous but that for long periods the water withdrew leaving a nearly flat plain of mud or sand, to be again inundated by a very slight change of level. The occurrence of sandstones is regarded as indicating the nearly presence of land from whose wear the sand was derived, and then distributed about by the waves. Shales or deeper waters or perhaps the existence of large mud-carrying rivers on the adjacent lands. Limestone beds indicate that at the time of their deposition the waters were free of other sediment so that the only deposit was that of shells of animals, and the remains of plants which took the dissolved lime out of the sea water. To understand the reason for such clearness of water as to result in a pure lime deposit, it is necessary to suppose that the lands were then either off or too low to supply debris to the sea.
Such is the brief history of Wisconsin while covered by the waters of the now extinct inland sea of the Mississippi valley. A shallow sea it must have been, quite free from the mud of today, its borders shifting greatly with very slight changes of the level of the land, and at times entirely drying up. It has been gone a long time, indeed, so long that we hardly dare to measure it in years. In this time the state has risen to its present position, and the streams carved out the present surface of the land, and even entire layers stripped off the sedimentary rocks from the higher part of the state.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of nineteen years, but I always stay home after work because my father forbids my going out. If I start to go against his wishes he scolds me and I start to cry and worry so much that I get a headache which lasts about two or three days. I have a younger sister who goes out every Sunday and often on other days, but my father says nothing. And when I see that she is allowed to go out it makes me terribly unhappy. There is a fellow that wants me to be his girl and he would like to take me out. I don't know whether I should go with him or not. I like him very much. Will you please advise me what to do? A DAILY READER.
Your father may think that the girl is not the right kind for you to go with. If this is so, by all means obey him and stay at home. But if your father is merely unreasonable, do what you think is right without crying and fussing over it. A firm stand may gain the respect of your father.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please give me a recipe for a good face cream. My skin is very dry, and it is impossible for me to use powder, because it shows so badly. C. S. W.
Elderberry Cream for Massage—Almond oil, one and one-half ounces; white wax, two and one-half drams; spermaceti, two and one-half drams; olive, one-half ounce; oil of bitter almonds, one-half ounce; elderflower water, one and one-half ounces; witch hazel, one-half ounce. Melt the wax and spermaceti in an earthen dish set in a basin of boiling water, add the almond and beat the oils slowly. Remove vessel from the heat and add the witch hazel and elderflower water. Apply at night or before day.
Dear Mrs. Thompson: Would you let my boy friends kiss you?
I prefer to be kissed by my own friends.

Glimpses of Married Life

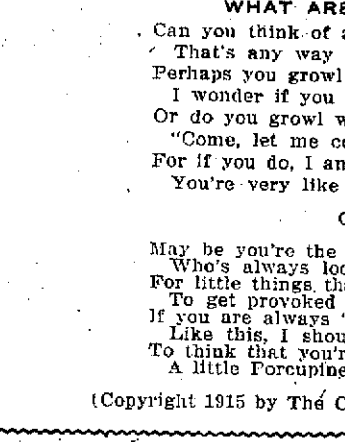

"Do you know what day of the month this is?" asked Nell. Dick had thrown himself on the lounge; he looked up inquiringly.
"It's just two days before the twenty-fourth," Nell added impressively.
"Yes, the twenty-fourth," he repeated.
"Yes, the twenty-fourth," he repeated.
"What a mean remark!" said Nell, tossing her head. "Now, we've got to celebrate properly this festive occasion."
Dick clasped his knee in both hands. "Have you any suggestions?"
"I've been thinking the lawn is so successful and the yard so shady it would be fine to give a lawn party. We could play cards and serve refreshments out of doors. Mrs. Parsons has agreed to wait till Monday before starting east. It will be a sort of farewell for her. I dread to think of her going," said Nell dejectedly.
"You'll have the whole crowd," of course," observed Dick.
"Yes, I am glad it comes on Saturday, for on that afternoon all the men will be at dinner. Saturday. They were sitting at dinner Saturday."

FAT FOLKS, BEWARE OF ANTI-FAT CURES.

Washington, March 29.—The Department of Agriculture in a bulletin just issued on its recent investigations of anti-fat humbugs, states that a common ingredient of the obesity cures is thyroid, a drug made from the thyroid gland which is still puzzling the medical world after years of study.
Thyroid, in the opinion of the government scientists, is far too dangerous a drug for inexperienced persons to experiment with.
When used as a drug it has a very powerful effect on the whole human system and this information should be sufficient to warn anyone against dosing himself blindly with it," says the department's bulletin.
For medical use a number of sheep's thyroids are dried at a temperature of from 90 to 100 degrees and then powdered. This powder may be administered either dry, or when treated with glycerin, the liquid.
"It indubitably does reduce tissue," says the Department, "and therefore those preparations which contain it are especial favorites with those persons who desire to rid themselves of fat. Unfortunately it is not possible to remove tissue at will without running great risk of ruining health at the same time. Abnormal deposits of fat are frequently accompanied by disorders of the heart, blood vessels and kidneys. To remove those deposits abruptly may well produce serious mechanical effects upon the operation of the internal organs."

Mme. de Thebes Prophecies That War Which She Foretold Will End Soon With Victory For Allies

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Paris, March 30.—That the European war will soon close, with victory for the allies, is the rather startling prediction made by Mme. de Thebes, the world famous seeress of Paris. Her almanac for the year 1915 was recently published. Mme. de Thebes, incidentally, does not begin on January 1, but on March 21, so that her prophecies for 1915 are for the part of its beginning on the latter date.

In her 1915 almanac the Paris seeress points out that she foresees the present war. She not only foretold war, but stated that France would be engaged in it, that Belgium would be

COLONIAL AMBITIONS GUIDE ITALIAN POLICY

SCARFOLIO, NOTED ECONOMIST POINTS ADVANTAGES OF NEW ALLIANCE.

ENGLAND ITALY ENEMY

Interests Clash With Rome's Desires. —Claims German Has Always Been a Supporter of Italians.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.)

Cologne, March 30.—Italy's course in the war, it has been officially stated, will be determined by consideration of her own interests. The acquisition of territory on the Adriatic from Austria through the mediation of Germany would be an immediate gain, but more important still is the development of her colonial policy. That her best interests lie in this direction lie in a renewal in effective form of the triple alliance is the view of many statesmen and publicists. Signor Scarfoglio, editor of the powerful Naples Mattino, a publicist and economist of great influence in southern Italy, discusses the question fully in a recent issue of his journal. His views are summarized in the semi-official Cologne Gazette as follows:

Renewal of Triple Alliance. The renewal of the triple alliance Scarfoglio regards as the safest policy. It should be a renewal in the true sense of the word creating a new alliance, free from the weaknesses of the present agreement. Since the outbreak of the war, Italy and Rome have been always clouded by the question of boundary regulations a question that gave cause to permanent friction between Italy and Austria. Germany, of the Italian, wishes would do much to bring about a lasting and useful understanding.

Scarfoglio is convinced that a new boundary regulation in Trentino and Tyrol in favor of Italy would find approval from German statesmen and would not encounter serious resistance in Vienna. The writer does not regard the transfer of Austrian territory to Italy as a reward for neutrality or as an equalization of a possible increase of power in the dual monarchy, but merely as the lasting consolidation of an alliance existing for several decades.

Colonial Policy. Another fault in the triple alliance, says Scarfoglio, is the limitation of the quarrels of the signatory powers to colonial possessions. The triple alliance of the future should outline a great world policy satisfying the colonial and maritime interests of the parties concerned. Germany's overseas interests, wherever they are in opposition to those of Italy. A renewed triple alliance on such a basis would be welcomed by Italy and at the same time would open new and advantageous prospects for the other two signatory powers.

In conclusion, the writer again dwells upon the peculiar and blind admiration which the Italians are showing for the "Mistress of the Sea." Italy owes nothing to Great Britain, since England has always considered her own advantage first, showing either indifference or hostility to the Italian. While Germany has shown sympathy and friendship to her southern ally. Despite this, Italian demagogues notwithstanding seek to inflame popular opinion against Germany. The pressure of events, thinks Scarfoglio, will dispel the clouds of prejudice. His political program, which is the same in its essentials as that of Italy's great statesman, Crispien, is the full approval of the Italians.

Every man who want help, want to buy or sell anything, or want to lease or secure a lease, can fill their wants quickly by telling them by telephone to the Gazette Want Ad Dept.

was this: "After 1914, an auroral year, we see 1915, a flaming year, the year of splendid deeds and great heroisms." She added: "A fortunate year, nevertheless, for great ideals, the salvation and regeneration of nations. In spite of blood in spite of tears, it will be a glorious year among the glorious years of France's past, a year of discord followed by love, a year of hate followed by union among the nations of Europe and of other great nations across the sea."

"Nineteen fourteen will witness the birth of a new Europe. Peace will come from war."

Her War Prophecy. In these words something like accurate prophecy of the conflagration now raging in Europe may be discerned, but it is nothing to her next prophecy uttered a year ago, in which she now says, she "formally announced the war as follows: 'There will be war, a struggle against the foreigner, even to the field of battle, and no matter when it comes, whether immediately or a little later, it will mean victory for us. We have nothing to fear from such tests. France will emerge endowed with new life, remade by war or by the menace of war.'

Turning to foreign countries, Mme. de Thebes had this to say in her last almanac of a year ago: "Italy pursues her triumphant destiny. A new Pope? Yes. And great changes will come. The attention of the world will be turned at supreme moments toward Italy."

Sees Trouble for Germany. "Everything foreshadowed for Germany is among the nations, most seriously threatened with disturbances, with profound changes in customs and institutions. Fate hangs over the emperor more than over any body else. It is not the eagle of victory that he bears on his helmet."

"Unhappy Austria! What did its leaders need for success? More kindness, more honesty, less avarice."

"For England, Mme. de Thebes prophesied 'domestic and foreign war.' In Russia, she said, the 'Slavs are overcoming the Germans.'"

"Poland, she wrote: 'You have had reason not to despair. It is upon you that the future smiles. Splendid and bloody things will be accomplished at Warsaw before long.'"

Foretold Destruction of Belgium. But most startling of all is Mme. de Thebes' prophecy that during 1914 Belgium would meet with "the dire of destruction."

Having thus sought to predispose people favorably toward her power of foretelling events, Mme. de Thebes takes up 1915, "the misty year," as she calls it.

Mme. de Thebes declares that she feels, "in the mist," that the war will soon be over, that it will bring to France tremendous consequences, "entirely different from what France imagines." She counsels her countrymen:

"Surprises will follow surprises. Do not weaken through impatience or despair. The future is yours. Remain faithful to your magnificent instincts, to your marvelous predilection, and you will be the pacific queen of the world. If not—but no, I cannot say it!"

Warns France to Be on Guard. She goes on to warn France solemnly to be on her guard when the peace negotiations come, for then "the man who is a sword will be broken," she continues mystically: "who is the woman whom vengeance will pursue, who will die miserably and not alone."

Next summer and autumn, she foretells, will be such a Paris has never seen, for pomp and enthusiasm. "And one of the French nation will be great, great as the drama itself."

Summing up what 1915 will bring to France the seeress writes: "It would appear that the year will follow a bloody and cruel course for one-third of its duration, after which it will find its equilibrium in peace, still hidden by smoke and mist. Which will continue to its end. Few new men will arise, exciting three or only one, dominating all the rest, and there will be innumerable disappearances of those representing error of the past."

Kaiser "to Die or Disappear." After indulging in an outburst of vituperation concerning Kaiser Wilhelm II, Mme. de Thebes declares that he will soon die, or, anyhow, be condemned to exile for longer, at least as she now is. As to the emperor's future, she avers that two different visions haunt her—one of a Germany, serious by internal dissensions, by rebellion against the emperor, the other a Prussian junker; the other a Germany suddenly yielding and declaring herself beaten in order to recuperate with new strength.

Mme. de Thebes prophesies destruction of the empire of Austria-Hungary, "which has no longer any reason for its existence," and of the Austrian emperor she says:

"Francis Joseph, who has brought unhappiness to all who have made the mistake of loving him, will die without bringing misfortune to his people."

A splendid future awaits Belgium, says Mme. de Thebes, and the king of the Belgians, if he escapes the perils that threaten him. For England, too, she sees a glorious future.

Surgeons Charge Germans Amputate Too Many

Paris, March 30.—Open charges are now being made in Paris that the German military surgeons have made a more frequent use of the knife at the expense of less and arms of French prisoners than modern curative science might have permitted necessary. Two thousand six hundred French prisoners, whose mutilations are so serious that they can never serve again as soldiers, are now being returned to France from Germany. Against this number France has only 1,000 mutilated Germans to return.

While a certain number of these on both sides are accounted for by the further service on account of blindness, yet the great bulk are suffering from the loss of arms and legs. Not only the difference in the total figures but also the disproportion between French and German mutilations is what has aroused in France first indignation, then suspicion and finally open charges. The place among French surgeons in Germany has been really necessary for the demand now going up. Amongst an equal number of French and German wounded hospital, where Germany has had every possible interest not to render unfit for further service a single German soldier more than was necessary and where such a consideration has not existed on behalf of the French, have the latter had the benefit of all the curative science that was unquestionably exercised on behalf of the former? This is another thing which France is openly demanding.

In addition, French surgeons are pointing out that surgery as practiced in France is distinctly of the "conservative" type. A member is never sacrificed that can in any way possibly be saved. Even in the military hospitals where the latter have been fighting with the enemy's wounded this principle has never been abandoned. But what France wants to know is that even if German surgeons have the same object in view of this method—something of which the French surgeons are openly doubtful—was it applied with the same

COLLECTING LETTERS OF STUDENT SOLDIERS FOR HISTORY OF WAR.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Frankfurt, March 30.—For the purpose of supplementing the routine history of the "world war," a collection of letters of student soldiers is being written—with a colorful account of details. Dr. Witkop, professor of history at the University of Freiburg, is collecting letters of students from universities in the field.

Relatives of such soldiers in all parts of Germany are being requested to send to him copies of communications from the trenches, extracts of which will later be reproduced. Prof. Witkop believes that these war letters will form an epic masterpiece of the lyric poetry of the conflict, the more valuable because of their spontaneity, color and objectiveness.

COMPLETE STATISTICS OF COLLEGE STUDENTS IN GERMAN UNIVERSITIES.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Berlin, March 30.—Complete statistics of the German and Austro-Hungarian universities and technical institutions show that a total of 93,446 students 19,720 are in the war. In Germany 56 per cent of the university students and nearly 62 per cent of those at the technical institutions are in the war. In Austria 1,081 of them have fallen. From the German universities and technical schools 1,585 professors have gone into the war, and 1,000 have been killed. The percentage of Austro-Hungarian students under arms is not so high as that of German students somewhat less than 50 per cent, having gone to the front. These figures reach to December 15.

Get a Hobby. Horace Greeley once said: "Young man, go West." I give advice as valuable and more easily followed: I say, young man, get a hobby; preferably get two, one for indoors and one for out; get a pair of hobby horses that can safely be ridden in opposite directions.—A. Edward Newton, in the Atlantic.

It would require a second Solomon to decide what is the most attractive and popular feature of George Kleine's artistic production of the Cines photo-drama, "Quo Vadis" which is now exciting the admiration of the world. Some spectators enjoy most the spectacular scenes of the arena with its ferocious lions, exciting gladiator combats and chariot races, to say nothing of Ursus' thrilling conquest of the savage bull, while others prefer the romantic love story of Vinitius and Lygia which is so completely related. Some admire the characteristic scenes of Nero's court with its brilliant pageantry, magnificent festivals and reproduction of Roman palaces and gardens—and a great many applaud the production for its deep moral and religious note, the impressive visualization of the early struggles of Christianity and inspiring scenes in which the Saviour and the Apostles Peter and Paul dominate. Altogether it is a supreme masterpiece and the one word that fittingly describes it is "marvelous." George Kleine's "Quo Vadis" is announced for Myers Theatre Wednesday, March 31, matinee and evening.

Like all things which succeed, the title "A Pair of Sixes" seems to be the exact name to fit the supremely funny farce which comes to Myers Theatre Saturday, April 3, matinee and evening.

It refers merely to the incident in the play which caused two partners to disagree and start a whirl of fun which is now being enjoyed the country over. Beyond that the title has nothing to do with what has been termed our great American indoor sport. There is of course a queen of hearts in the cast. She is a mighty big card and probably furnishes the only instance where a lone queen beat a pair of sixes.

"A Pair of Sixes" which is by Edward Peple, author of "The Prince Chap" and "Littlest Rebel" was acknowledged by New York Critics to be the funniest farce since the days of the lamented Chas. H. Hoyt and all seemed to feel that it was necessary to go far back to find its equal. While there is fun galore, it is all legitimate. The fun is evolved through the mingling of keen satire and delightful humor, which, with the constantly complicated situations, produce one of the most pleasing plays of this half century.

The cast is satisfyingly complete and discloses such names as that of Harry O. Stubbs, of whom Amy Lewis said in the Chicago Daily News, "Harry O. Stubbs, will always be the bright particular star of any organization with which he is connected." Rita Carlyle, a noted English actress celebrated for her tour of over two years in England and the dominant when she was jointly starred with William Molison, as "Pat" in "The Chorus Lady"; Helen Dahl, recruited from the Henry W. Savage forces, who play the leading comedy roles and are capably assisted by a company all of whom have appeared at one time or another at the Longacre Theatre, New York City, during the year's run of the comedy on Broadway.

Terrific Power Of Our Newest Dread-

Big guns that hurl 150 pounds of projectiles 25 miles from the west super-dreadnaughts of our new U. S. Navy constitute one of the interesting films to be presented at the Myers Theatre Friday, April 9, and Saturday, April 10, by Lyman H. Howe. They were photographed by Howe's camera

HUMAN HAIRS FORM

SPRING TO FOG GONG.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Milwaukee, Wis., March 30.—Lake vessels are to be saved from dashing themselves against the new intake crib in foggy weather by four hairs from a woman's head.

The human hairs, woven into a coil six inches long, will form the main spring of an automatic fog gong which is to be installed at the crib. The coil will connect with the electrical apparatus. In foggy weather, the hairs will expand, permitting a steel needle to drop down and men by the authority of Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Josephus Daniels. The battleships of our squadrons even a few short years ago were mere pigmies, compared to our present day powerhouses of the deep. These 18 inch guns are what our nation under stress of war would have to pin its faith to. It is true that the results of the tests shown in this film are kept strictly secret, in departmental archives, but naval experts say they surpass all expectations. Confidence in their terrific power is not misplaced. The series also shows 12 inch guns in action. Even these are so powerful that a projectile weighing 930 lbs. will penetrate over two inches of armor plate at a distance of over two miles away. Another phase of our naval armament is disclosed by long range views of new torpedoes—about 20 feet long, 18 inches wide and costing $2,500 apiece. They, too, can be depended upon for absolute accuracy for over two miles. The big guns can be fired every two minutes, but even the largest battleship cannot carry more than 80 or 100 rounds for each gun. Howe's production of our navy is so comprehensive that it comprises all types of fighting crafts such as the ordinary destroyers which with only its 4 inch guns can easily sink a merchantman, and the light cruisers which with their 8 inch guns can as readily sink the destroyer. "The mosquito fleet" is the term usually applied to them but this cognomen would seem more appropriate for the sub-marines which are also shown.

Howe travelers will also visit what, at first sight, might well be regarded as a governmental edifice, museum or university. Indeed it well deserves to be considered as a university that stands for all that is progressive and practical, rather than for theory. In reality it is a manufacturing plant of vast proportions and one that owes its great success to the initiative increased efficiency and consummate skill and organization of an army of over 6,000 men and women. It is the plant of the National cash register company at Dayton, Ohio, and the unnumberable processes, operations and machines employed in manufacturing the product as shown in this reproduction are of absorbing interest.

Native life in the Philippines is another feature of remarkable interest showing the strange customs of different tribes and how these same customs have been led to civilization by Uncle Sam. Unique customs, weird scenes, strange dances and the swift march of progress are all vividly illustrated. It is an astonishing object lesson showing how these strange people have been redeemed from savagery. One portion, in particular, was secured at great personal risk, showing the last head-hunt which ever occurred in Bontoc. This portion never has been and never can be duplicated as head-hunting has now ceased.

MARIE DORO REPEATS HER STAGE SUCCESS

Popular Star is Seen in Photoplay Production at the Apollo Last Evening.

Marie Doro was every bit as charming in the photoplay production of "The Morals of Marcus" in which she appeared at the Apollo last night, as she was in her original triumphant stage. True, one misses her delightful voice, but the possibilities of the picture makes one forget this. There is a delicate and beautiful talent wrapped up in the make-up of Miss Doro that please and touch the observer. The attribute of sympathy and a strange, swift command of the resources of pantomime are in evidence throughout her entire portrayal. The sympathetic quality of her art is so truly and softly disclosed that more than once she creates a picture of girlish woe and grief half comprehended, that appeal to the emotions of her audiences with inexpressible tenderness.

With Miss Doro is associated such favorites as Eugene Ormonde and Julian L'Estrange.

make a connection with the gong, and kept it ringing as long as the fog lasts.

The apparatus was invented by George Staal, city engineer, and R. B. Schulz, his assistant. Paul H. Staal, city hall electrician, built the apparatus under their supervision. Staal declined to say from whom they had obtained the necessary hair.

DECIDES LABEL LAW DOES NOT APPLY TO CORN PRODUCTS CO.

Judge Sanborn in Ruling Today Holds Concern Exempt From Law Regarding Labeling Of Syrup Packages.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 30.—Judge A. L. Sanborn, of the United States district court for the western district of Wisconsin, in a decision filed this morning held a decree should issue for a perpetual injunction restraining the State Dairy and Food Commissioner George J. Weigle from enforcing against the Corn Products Refining company the Wisconsin law requiring the labeling of the ingredients on syrup packages. The decision declares the statute valid, however, as to the internal commerce of the state. Costs are allowed.

H. O. Fairchild of Green Bay, Wis., was attorney for the Corn Products company and John M. Olin, of Madison, represented the attorney general of Wisconsin in the case. The action was originally brought against John Q. Emery, predecessor of Weigle, and by stipulation the evidence given in the Emery suit was used in the new suit instituted against the present commissioner.

Judge Sanborn says that the Wisconsin act of 1913, as applied to purely internal commerce, should be sustained. While the language of the law is general and broad enough to include all sales of the company's product, whether interstate or internal, yet it is the settled rule in Wisconsin to restrain such general language to internal commerce if to do otherwise would avoid the statute.

The court therefore held that the state should be restrained from applying the law to the company's goods or its retailers because this would interfere with interstate commerce and the law's scope thus restricted to internal concerns, its proper field, and as so restricted it is held valid.

Two names have been applied to the commodity in question, glucose and corn syrup. There has been much controversy even as to the proper labeling in the department of agriculture and in Wisconsin and Michigan. A Wisconsin law of 1907 provided that glucose labels must read "Glucose Flavored with Sugar Syrup," and must bear no other label. The company instead labeled its goods as composed of corn syrup and refined syrup, in accordance with the federal food and drugs act. The state law therefore required the removal of such labels. In McDermott vs. state, of Wisconsin, the United States supreme court held this was an interference with the federal law making labels within the meaning of the act evidence of branding or misbranding, and making a true label complete protection to the dealer from seizure of his goods or criminal process against him. The Wisconsin legislature thereupon passed the act of 1913 to compel the use of a glucose label in connection with the corn syrup label. The company then changed its label to read "Corn Syrup 85 per cent. Refined Syrup 15 per cent." The validity of this law was attacked by the company on three grounds: As a regulation of interstate commerce; as an unreasonable and oppressive exercise of police power; as depriving the company of its property without due process of law.

"S. O. S." does not mean "save our ship," nor does it stand for "sink or swim." As a matter of fact, the letters do not stand for any three English words, especially as this universal wireless signal of distress is used by people of all nations. It is simply an arbitrary signal consisting of an S, an O and an S in the Continental code. This is three dots, three dashes and three dots, and is a call that can easily be recognized among a mass of wireless messages flying through space.—American Boy.

AS ALLIES NEAR CONSTANTINOPLE MORGENTHAU'S TASK GROWS HARDER

Ambassador Henry Morgenthau at his desk in Constantinople.

As the allied fleets approach Constantinople the work of Henry Morgenthau, American ambassador to Turkey, becomes more difficult. Morgenthau is looking after the interests of the allied nations in the Ottoman capital as well as those of America. Fears have been expressed that when it becomes certain the city cannot be saved, excited mobs will seek to destroy the property of English, French and Russians in Constantinople.
